Illuminating the BEE, Here, Now

A humble tribute to those hard-working bees, who hardly would call what they do work.

Because they are truly masters of bee-ing, as is all of nature.

This is why I give my deepest respect to nature and have considered her to be one of my greatest teachers. For in stillness, we can know who we are.

- Note: not all photos may be bees, as I am unsure of how to tell some from others. But, they are all beautiful to me and likely useful as pollinators for much of our food and the beauty we receive from nature's abundance.

“Aerodynamically, the bumble bee shouldn't be able to fly, but the bumble bee doesn't know it so it goes on flying anyway.”

The illuminating journey continues . . .

This book is an expression of the work of Steve Allat – author, philosopher, I Am.

Under the title “Illuminating the Disconnect”, I am writing about the evolution of self-consciousness in the human species and it's uses, misuses and proliferation.

Please inquire if you would like more information on getting in touch with your authentic self, would like support along your journey or wish to share the ride.
